Please replace the paragraph beginning at page 9, line 21 with the following rewritten paragraph:

--In operation, by way of overview, the creation and maintenance of the user profile is accomplished according company groupings: these are titles of corporations, and each grouping may have many company codes (a company grouping is a legal entity with its own requirements).
Company name is passed in a human resource file or interface, to which a company grouping code is added. That data is loaded into employee staging tables of RCW. The process then looks for new employees, builds an employee profile which includes company code and group code
